That press dispatch out of Cranston, Rhode Island, to me rates as the funniest story by far of the near year.

Hope you didn't miss it, but it is one of those "woman motorist" stories and the man motorist involved swears it is the truth.

He was driving and his car stalled. The battery was dead. A woman motorist came along and agreed to give him a push. He explained his car had automatic plained his car had automatic transmission and to get it started, she'd have to get up to 30 or 35 miles an hour in her car.

Stevens meanwhile said nothing.
He failed to defend the Army. But when the stanch Republican New York Herald Tribune published a scathing series of articles showing that there was no espionage danger at Ft. Monmouth, Republican Secretary Stevens was finally pushed into a press conference at which he admitted the truth of what the Herald Tribune, the Washington Post and the New York Times were Specifically, Stevens stated that no one at Ft. Monmouth had been charged with espionage. There may have been some charges 10 years ago, back in 1944 when Julius Rosenberg worked there, he said, but there was no evidence since that time. This statement by the secretary of the Army caused the senator from Wisconsin to hit the ceiling. He promptly summoned Stevens to New York, and Stevens dutifully went. And at a private luncheon also attended by Roy O. Cohn, Mc-Carthy's counsel, the secretary of the Army was rebuked for making a statement which put McCarthy in Lamely, Stevens explained that he was pushed into holding a press conference, and there was nothing else for him to say but the truth.

Finally McCarthy persuaded the secretary of the Army to issue clarifying statement, after he left the luncheon, to the effect that in making his earlier statement he Stevens, was speaking for the Army and not for McCarthy, who had been holding executive sessions. The inference was that Stevens did not know what McCarthy had been developing in these executive sessions and that Mc-Carthy might have run across espionage unknown to the Army.

McCarthy was satisfied - but for only a short time. For, in Senate debate on Mc-Carthy's appropriations, Senator Ellender of Louisiana pulled from his pocket a letter from Secretary Stevens denying Mc Carthy's charges of Ft. Monmouth espionage.

Dust storms hit the Kansas wheat country again today but up to 10 inches of welcome snow fell

Elsewhere, a cold wave sent the temperature plunging below zero in northern Wisconsin, and rain fell on the central states, the Ohio Valley, the Atlantic Coast and New England.

Winds up to 50 miles per hour whipped powder-dry soil into dust clouds at Garden City, Kan., and cut visibility to about a mile. But at daybreak the wind had subsided. The same area was hit last Friday by the worst dust storm in 15 picking committee chairmen. "There is a matter of party responsibility involved," the Senate by the commission.

Senate Republicans Study Changing Seniority System For Committee Chairmen

Knowland refused to mention any names. But it was obvious his statement reflected Republican anger at Chairman William Langer Conducts Hearings (R-N.D.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee. Knowland and other GOP leaders were infuriated last week by Langer's publication of unsubstantiated charges against Chief Justice Earl Warren. Under the system long used in both Senate and House, the senior day, R. Dale Wilson, county supermajority member of a committee intendent of schools who attended, is automatically nominated to the chairmanship, if he wants it. Knowland thought the majority party should be free to choose among its wo or three senior members on a committee.
